THE WAR EXCITEMENT IN THE CITY. Intense excitement prevailed throughout the city last evening on the receipt of the news that an engagement had taken place at Charleston. In accordance with their usual astuteness, the evening papers had published tele. graphic despatches of a quiet state of things at what may now be termed the seat of war. Those who read these papers of course had their fears for the time quieted, and ent home with the calm satisfaction that blood had not as yet been shed. What then was their astonishment a few hours later to hear the newsboys vigorously shouting the "extry HERALD," with the bombardment of Fort Sum ter and the details of a terrible struggle? The city, calmed into quiet by the peaceful reports of the afternoon, woke with a start when the hourse voice of myriads of newsboys, resounding through our streets in the solemo stiliness of night, proclaimed the news.

During the day the curious and apxious had sought the bulletin boards of the newspapers to post themselves in regard to the progress of events at the South, and around the various offices crowds were gathered until evening At the hotels and barrooms, in the same manner throngs were collected, who discussed the probable object which the government had in sending out the recent armed transports, the result of an attempt to reinforce Fort Sumter, wheres the present troubles of the country would end, &c., &c. The excitement, however, was not great, owing to the peaceful but incorrect news published by the evening papers, and men lounged around the hotels and places of public resort calmly glancing over the news.

In the evening, however, the thrilling intelligence began to spread. Thousands throughd to the HERALD office. and newsboys bearing papers under their arms sped through the streets of the city. The news spread like wildfire, and but one centiment seemed to pervade every mind-where would the strife, now so terribly com

The anxiety to hear the news was well depicted in the scenes which met one at every turn. At the New York Hotel, which, during the last cam paign rendered itself particularly obnoxious to the Wide Awakes and republicans, a scene of considerable excitement prevailed. The guests, in a measure Southerners, gathered in the halls and passageways and conversed with great vehemence on the important news which the extra Heraid had laid before them. In the lower hallway the sofas were occupied with these personages, and to one group the attention of our reporter was particu-

BEWARE OF KEEPING A VICIOUS BLACK DOG. Arms. 12 - Patrick Kearnes vs Barley and Tarrelton .-The parties to this suit were occupants of the same premises, the plaintiff being tenant of the defendants A vicious black dog, of the republican order, was kept on their concern in William street, where the defendants do business as butchers, and "on the 4th of Murch last" the minial was so excited at the result of the Presidential election that he became rabid, and thought that leader, the plaintiff, had no right to execuse the liberty of a tenant, accordingly the 'black dog' seized him by the leg and inflicted a severe injury. The plaintiff proved that he sciered much, that the dectar dressed his wound for two or three weeks. The defendants contended that the dog was not owned by them; that he was in the premises five years ago, when they took parentle. They admitted, however, that they had had the dog as a watch, though in consequence of complaints against the animal they had sent it away several times; yet it still returned, and they refused to have it destroyed. Gen. Mosquera's headquarters will be at Guaduas, about six or eight hours' ride from Bogota, and the general government's troops are to remain in a small village near Bogota.

By this time I suppose Gen M is at the capital.

The defeat of Precenc at Ocana is confirmed, and he, with nearly all his officers, are now prisoners in Carthagena. What men he had have all been killed or died of fevers; his force combisted of two thousand.

The State of Santander is perfectly quiet, the liberals having driven the conservatives out and taken charge of the government.

Antiquia still continues to declare itself for Gen. Mosquera. The latter is receiving reinforcements from all quarters, everybody volunteering to defend the federation.

From Buenaventura we have received further news of defeats of the general government, showing that its cause is hopless.

From Buenaventura we have received forther news of defeats of the general government, showing that its cause is hopless.

On the moroing of March 20, at six a. M., the town of Buenaventura was attacked by a party of about four or five hondred liberals, under the command of Col. Pedrosa. The government forces were about 125 or 180; of these twenty-five retreated on board the government vessels (the and Salamandra in the bay, and opened a heavy fire on the town, wounding and killing many of the residents and destroying a great many buildings. The government troops retreated to the qua-tel, which was well fortified, being built up with large wooden logs to the second floor, the upper part being faced by plates of boiler iron bolted to the building, Here they made a stand for some time but the building either, having been set on fire by Congreve rockets or by order of Sr. Hoyos, who commanded the besieged troops, those who attempted to escape from the ilames were shot down, and the remainder, from thirty to thirty-five men, including Sr. Hoyos, perished in the barning ruins.

After the burning of the quartel and the victory of the liberals the Clio and Salamandra went to sea towards Tumaco.

ANOTHER BILLIARD TOURNAMENT -In consequence of the interest manifested by the public in the contests which took place in this city last year, the professors of this science have determined to hold an annual meeting, to be called the National Billiard Tournament. The first of these will take place in this city about the beginning of June, and will be opened to all prominent players on this June, and will be opened to all prominent players on this continent. It will last two weeks, and will probably be held in Irving Hall. The chief prize being a valuable one, it is expected the contest will be the most exciting and interesting that has ever taken place either in Europe or this country. The cities of Paris, New York, Philadelphia, Chacimsati, Detroit, Milwaukee, Montreal and Syracuse, will be represented by the following players:—Messra Berger, Pheian, Kavanagh, White, Andrew Stark, Lynch, Tiemann, Deering, Secritor, Le Brun, Bird, Victor Estephe, Fox, Owen and Dim, besides others whore names have not yet been received. Mr. Phelan, who has contributed no largely to the electation of this game in the rank of amusements, offers a very handisome prize to the professional player who shall be considered victorious—viz: one of his best finished carom billiard tables, valued at $1,000. The other prizes will consist of money, in proportion to the merits of the performers, and in such amounts as the committee shall decide. The wonders performed here so recently by Mons. Berger, of Paris, would lead the public to suppose that there will be no chance for the Americans if this prime of cues should play; but so far from this being the case, we understand that it is the wish of the profession that Mons. Berger should be one of the contestants. It was the intention of the promoters of the tournament that a prize should be offered to amateurs, but finding that it would be difficult to determine who should be the contestants without making it a rambling operation by means of a pool, it has been wisely determined that such an exhibition should not take place. To entirent. It will last two weeks, and will probably be operation by means of a pool, it has been wis mined that such an exhibition should not take satisfy, however, those who were anxious to have a amateur performance. Mr. Fhelan has, out of his ow pocket, offered a premium to amateurs in the shape of beautifully finished miaid billiard table, valued at $700. AN ADVENTUROUS SWARM OF BEES .- A very curious little incident is related to have occurred on he brig Cairo, during a late voyage from Cardenas to this the harbor of Cardenas the captain observed a swarm bees following his vessel, and was not a little astonished to see them, after hovering about inquisitively for a while, light upon the deck, evitently with the intention of making themselves as comfortable as possible. Desiring to afford their beeships all the accommodation convenient, the captain obtained an empty cask and placed it in the vicinity of the buzzing colonists as the best substitute for a hive at hand. The bees took the hiot, walked in, and, in a word, settled themselves as comfortably almost as if they had been on ierra firma, fluttering about modulationally from flower to lower in search of sweets. To shorten our story, the beec came all the way to Naw York, having been carefully attended to by the captain, who fed them liberally with sugar. On the voyage they would occasionally quit the vessel in a body and fly about or half an hour or more, when they would return to the vessel, disgusted with the waste of waters, and glad to return the firm and practers in the cask on deck. The cargo of bees were entered yesterday at the Caston House proferms, and granted a free permit. bees following his vessel, and was not a little astonished
